Action Urged To Meet Water Needs

McQuilken Subpoenaed In Assessment Probe

SAN DIEGO (CNA)—District Attorney Don Keller Monday subpoenaed County Assessor John McQuilken to testify before the county grand jury Aug. 25.

McQuilken's business division chief, Donald James, was ordered to appear this week.

The action followed a day of activity concerning the assessor's office.

Earlier, County Supervisors agreed to pay for an extended audit of the books of about 40 San Diego County businesses believed by Keller to have filed false personal property statements for assessment purposes.

Keller appeared before the board after a hurried trip from his office, where he had been interrogating McQuilken. The assessor Friday, in a written statement, denied any knowledge of any wrong doing on his part or the part of any member of his staff.

Keller said he has "received no cooperation of any kind" from McQuilken in the investigation.

Citing as an example of this lack of cooperation, Keller told of calling McQuilken's office for one of the statements under investigation. Keller said the file showed "a substantial misstatement" of the firm's inventory.

Keller said McQuilken's comment to "what he recognized as a falsified statement" was "Well, that doesn't amount to very much." Keller said the amount and the accrued penalties totaled $885.

While Keller talked to the board, Deputy District Attorney Bruce Iredale continued questioning of McQuilken who had his attorney, Ned Kimball, with him.

Keller said he possessed a copy of a claim presented to the County by McQuilken's chief, Donald James, for $32 for lodging at a Los Angeles assessors' convention, where James' hotel bill actually was paid by a local firm. The county auditor's office reported James is willing to refund the $32.

Keller said presentation of a false claim is a criminal action. He said James could also be subject to criminal charges, if evidence should show that James performed any service for the firm that paid for the $61-a-day suite at the Ambassador Hotel in which James stayed. Keller said it is against the law for a county official to accept gratuity for any service.

Keller has announced that he has "positive evidence" of the filing of falsified tax assessment statements. He said he showed McQuilken a list of 200 prospective clients purportedly furnished to the Castro Valley tax consultant, James C. Tooke, by someone in the assessor's office.

According to Keller, McQuilken said he thought the confidential list of San Diego business firms with inventories over $50,000 came from his office. Keller said the list was found in Tooke's files in Alameda County.

S.V. Land Sale Brings $150,000

SAN DIEGO (CNA)—A 40-acre site on Sweetwater Springs Blvd., south of Highway 94 in Spring Valley, has been purchased by Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hotten, of 4811 Lomitas St., San Diego, from Special Situations, Inc.

Internal Revenue Stamps on the deed, filed in the office of County Recorder Al Gray, indicate the sale price was approximately $150,000.

L.G. Man Jailed 5 Days On Charge Of Drunk Driving

SAN DIEGO (CNA)—A Lemon Grove man has been granted five years probation, the first five days to be spent in county jail, on a charge of drunk driving injury.

He is Frank Ever Wilkes, 54, of 7505 Pacific Ave., who was involved in an accident April 24 in El Cajon.

Wilkes pleaded no contest to the charge and Friday appeared before Superior Court Judge Robert W. Conyers for a probation hearing.

Conyers ordered Wilkes to surrender his driving license and to abstain from drinking for two years. For the remainder of his probation, Wilkes is to refrain from drinking in public.

An El Cajon woman was injured when Wilkes' pickup truck struck her car.

Blurry Memory

When he turned himself in to the Sheriff's office in San Diego Monday, Bill Eugene Allen, 27, of 547 Carlsbad St., Spring Valley, told officers he did not remember being arrested, some hours earlier, handcuffed, and escaping from the patrol car of two Lemon Grove officers.

Sgt. Robert L. King and Deputy Grover Nored reported they (Continued on Page 4)

Southern Californians must "proceed on schedule" to prepare for future water needs, warned Harry Griffen Monday at the dedication of the new $3-million R. M. Levy water treatment plant just completed by the Helix Irrigation District.

Griffen, president of the district, said the the ambitious programs now under way "must proceed on schedule to avert a serious crisis in the early 1970s that could arise if Metropolitan (Water District) were not prepared to take delivery and distribute the northern water."

"The (San Diego) Water Authority must have facilities built and ready to receive the water when Metropolitan has it available to them. It is estimated that the Authority's construction program will approach $30-million and would be financed by a bond issue."

"Both of these bond issues are expected to be on the June, 1966, ballot."

"If we intend to grow, to prosper, to maintain the standard of living to which we have become accustomed, we must—yes each one of us—must give our wholehearted support to these issues and see that they are passed."

Other Dignitaries
Dedication of the new treatment plant at Lake Jennings east of El Cajon was attended by U. S. Congressman Lionel Van Deerlin, D-San Diego, who helped obtain necessary federal money to finance the project.

Another principal at the ceremony was Herbert Foster Jr., chief of the Bureau of Sanitary Engineering, California State Department of Public Health.

Needs of this area for water are continuing to grow, Griffen said in his talk, and pointed out that the State Water Project to bring water from Northern to Southern California by 1972 will help the situation. He added that Southern California must be ready to receive and distribute the water.

In noting the needs of the area in the next three years, Griffen said the San Diego Water Authority has indicated demand will rise to 285 million gallons a day. That is dangerously close to the present 320-million-gallon-a-day intake capacity from the aqueduct system, he added.

College-Federal Property To House New Auto Agency

A new car agency will be built on the undeveloped site at the northwest corner of Federal and College in Lemon Grove, it was revealed this week.

Ben Margolis, a realtor and developer of 6575 El Cajon Blvd., admitted Wednesday that "there is something in the works." He said the product would be "one of the big five" (automobile manufacturers). Margolis owns the four acres on which the development would go.

The property east of Margolis' is being developed presently by American Oil Co. as a gasoline filling station.

3 Areas Annexed In Fire District; 3 More Are Due

Three "islands" within the Spring Valley Local Fire District have been annexed to the District within the past three months and three more are in process, according to L. D. Lawton, assistant fire chief. The three areas are Explorer Road, in the east part of the district; South Granada Street, where a number of homes are being built on the hill above Monte Vista High School; and Kenora Village, an area south of Campo Road, where several new homes are being built.

Three more areas are in the process of being annexed, Lawton said. They are Sweetwater Lodge at 10707 Jamacha Blvd.; an area in South Spring Valley with 83 homes; and the third area on North Conrad Drive.

For an area to be annexed, 51 per cent of the land owners must sign petitions, or 50 registered voters. He said petitions must be turned in to San Diego County offices by Sept. 17. After that there is to be new legislation for districts to be formed. It will be more difficult to annex to a fire district under the new legislation, Lawton said.

Karl Tuttle To Chairman Grossmont Citizens' Group

Karl Tuttle, a former El Cajon mayor and citizen of the year in 1961, has been selected as the general chairman of a citizens' group to be known as the Grossmont College Campus Completion Committee. The group will campaign for the $3.5-million Grossmont College bond election on Oct. 19.

Other members of the GCCC steering committees and their areas of responsibility are Mrs. John Morrow, executive officer; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Knowlden, precinct organization; Ernest Twiss, PTA coordination; Mrs. Virginia Mitchell, materials development; Steve Fletcher, endorsements; Clarke Hatch, finance; O. W. Miller, speakers bureau; Cap. Robin Hartmann, publicity; Mark Nelson, student representative; Abel Sykes, faculty representative; and Jim Richardson, alumni representative.

2,850 Students Expected
The $3.5 million bond issue would provide funds to complete the college's master plan and to increase its capacity from 2,500 to 4,000 day students. An enrollment of 2,850 day students is anticipated this fall, according to college officials.

In reference to the college and the bond election, Tuttle stated: "I cannot emphasize too strongly the important place which Grossmont College now occupies in the life of the entire Grossmont district. It is imperative that this proposed bond issue be approved to assure continuation of the college's necessary growth, without which the post-high school educational needs of our youth cannot be adequately met. A denial of educational opportunity to anyone who can profit from it is a grave disservice."

No Trouble With Long-Ball Hitters

So many reports have been written about the Los Angeles race riots that it staggers a reporter's ability to produce a fresh slant on these tragic affairs.

The sordid record of life-taking, arson and looting have now been burned into the pages of American history—never to be erased—even by future acts of brotherly love and patience.

Only in war has there been so much wanton and senseless destruction. As it is in war, someone must pay the damage bill. We suspect that much of this payment is already being made; it is being made in loss of sympathy for the Negro cause. So senseless is the rioters' defiance of law and order that sympathy for their cause was sapped away faster than it came during the long, painful period of gain.

Negroes have opportunities greater than those given any race any time in history. The impatience that came with the opening of civil rights gates is understandable—but lawlessness that came, too, cannot be tolerated.

It is perhaps in the jargon of a baseball-playing friend that the whole philosophy of racial acceptance can be best understood—by all races. It is the philosophy that most human privileges must be earned, regardless of race.

He tells of an amateur baseball team he managed in a small mid-west town. A visiting Southerner once asked him if he had any racial problems resulting from half the team members being Negroes. "Sure we have some problems," the coach admitted, "but never with the long-ball hitters."

Smog Devices Said Not Harmful

Do smog control devices reduce auto engine efficiency, and, in fact, ruin many of them?

No, answer officials who are responsible for seeing that the devices are installed and serviced. They claim that the only harmful installation is a faulty installation. Service Jeeps have been in operation with smog devices since 1938 without undesirable effects, one official said.

The people who will have the job of installing and servicing smog devices are certificated men of approximately 600 designated gasoline filling stations around the country. The stations are known by prominently displayed signs designating them as official stations.

Inspections will come from a widely enlarged corps of officers of the California Highway Patrol. These men will routinely spot-check compliance records. These records may be a sticker, a card, or some other form of identification. This element of smog control is waiting legislative implementation.

Legislation making smog control mandatory is Senate Bill 317 and it is a greatly watered-down version of a previous bill—one which aroused much controversy and resistance. The previous bill would have forced owners of cars 15 years of age or newer to install fumes emission control devices this year.

The new law requires such devices on any car less than 11 years of age and then only when the registration is changed. There are a few exceptions but less than two percent of the total will be affected.

Mandatory installation begins next year. The last digit of the license plate on each car is the key. If your license plate number ends in "1", you'll have to have the device in operation by the end of January. The whole job will be completed at the end of October when cars whose plates end in zero will wind up the series.

Most new American built autos will be required to have devices for both exhaust and crankcase on 1966 cars. Another change in the law that would have been the requirement to produce an affidavit at each registration. The new law requires only a certificate from the licensed station. The certificate must be dated within the past 12 months, however. This will assure at least an annual inspection.

It will cost more to register autos as a result of these controls. Registration fees will be increased from the present $8 in $1 increments for the next three years. The Department of Motor Vehicles will set standards for qualifying stations and training personnel. The expanded Highway Patrol will not only give random roadside check for smog devices, it will also check brakes and lights.

Devices presently on the market have an average cost of $18. Current inspection cost is about $1 and another buck or two is added if repair or adjustment needs be made on the device.

If smog can be reduced and eventually eliminated, the program is worth the investment. When brake and light safety is added, the program becomes a bargain.

Laundry Stake-Out Traps S.V. Man

SAN DIEGO (CNA)—A Spring Valley man arrested for burglary after marked coins were found in his possession pleaded innocent in Superior Court Thursday.

He is Charles Sheets, 42, of 809 Sweetwater Rd., who told Judge Verne O. Warner he is unemployed. Judge Warner set trial for Oct. 28.

Sheets was arrested by La Mesa police following a stake-out of a La Mesa laundry.

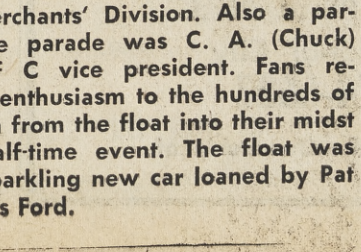

Police said the self-service laundry had been hit by a coin burglar six times in three weeks during June and July.

La Mesa police had placed marked coins in the machine and "staked-out" the laundry.

Coins totaling $8.86, including some of the marked coins and a wire believed to have been used to pick the coin machine mechanism, was found on Sheets.

REV. H. C. BAKKEN

— HOME —

Home is a place of security and peace. It is a place where little children can go to bed at night knowing that loving parents are near at hand. It is a place where they sense the presence of God, because their parents talk to God and talk about God. They learn to end the day with talking to God in prayer and they learn to greet God in prayer in the morning.

Planners Adopt Zone Plan For North La Presa

SAN DIEGO (CNA) — The County Planning Commission has followed all but one staff recommendation in making its own recommendation to the Board of Supervisors for a permanent zone plan for the north La Presa area of Spring Valley.

The plan will come before the board at a public hearing. The commission's action was taken Friday at a closed hearing, meaning that no more testimony could be received.

The north portion of the district is recommended as R-1 with a variety of uses in the southern portion ranging from commercial, multiple family residential to industrial.

The change of the staff recommendation was for a portion of C1 zoning instead of C at the southwest corner of the district.

Kennel Affected

Nineteen owners had requested that they be given M-1 zoning instead of R-3, but the commission found that most properties north of Harness Road have grades that are excessive for industrial property. A kennel on the west side of Canyon Road will be the only non-conforming use under R-3.

Twenty-two other requests for denial by the commission. A change made by the commission not recommended by the staff was the change of all M-1 zoning north of Harness Street to R-3.

Polaris To Be Displayed

One of our nation's most formidable weapons, the two-stage, solid-fuel Polaris missile, will be on display during the entire 12-day run of the California State Fair beginning Sept. 1. The missile will be displayed just inside the main gate, near the historic C. P. Huntington locomotive.

Penny A Year

The cost to each Californian of running the state's Economic Development Agency is only a penny more than a penny a year, whereas the added income the agency helps attract to the state in the form of new payrolls would, if divided among every citizen, approach the $2 figure.

"The deficiency problem in water availability is being temporarily solved by construction of the State Water Project, which will bring Northern California water into Southern California by 1972," Griffen said.

"The Metropolitan (Water) District (which brings Colorado River water to Southern California and distributes it to various water companies and agencies) will eventually take two billion gallons of this water a day in addition to its Colorado River water.

"To be able to take delivery of this new water and distribute it to all constituent member agencies, the Metropolitan District will undertake a construction project costing in excess of a billion dollars, that will be financed by cash reserves, presently authorized by unsold bonds, and a bond issue of $850 million.

Griffen traced the history of the development of the water treatment plant dedicated yesterday and noted that the first concrete evidence that a plant would be built was in 1947 when the 540-acre site was acquired for $40,000.

Griffen also pointed out that as late as 1946 the Helix Irrigation District relied on rainfall and underground water as its sole source of supply. The supply was supplemented in 1947 by Colorado River water.

Dear Editor:

In view of the anarchical riots in Los Angeles I am sure the average citizen is asking such age old questions as "What is happening to our country?" and "Why doesn't somebody do something?", etc. Questions such as these are a result of public apathy. These questions are asked by people who spend very little time, if any, on educating themselves as to what is really happening on the National, State, and local scene. They don't want to face reality and know the facts because it disturbs them.

Considering myself an informed and concerned citizen I think that I can answer the questions intelligently. The answer to the first question can be answered by simply reading your daily newspaper. Complete moral decay is taking place along with complete apathy and lack of participation of our citizens in our community and governmental affairs. If we are to have a government of the people, for the people, and by the people, we must take interest and action in these affairs. We must speak out and

Should Press Have Freedom In Reporting Crime News?

by Newspaper Public Information Committee of Newspaper Association
Managers, Inc.

Should the press have a free hand in reporting crime news? Despite nearly 200 years of apparent success, the relative freedom allowed in American pretrial press coverage has come under heightening criticism since the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Is the attack justified? Is the more restrictive British system of pretrial reporting preferable? More particularly, are innocent persons being sent to jail because jurors have been infected with prejudice through press reports? Or does an accused person obtain a fair trial despite occasional excesses of reporting detail?

These issues make up a current debate holding the attention of newsmen, lawyers and judges all across the nation. From it may come new understanding of the relative roles of the press and the courts in the American judicial process. Or the nation could be on the verge of a crime news blackout without precedent in U. S. history.

Bar Association Study

At the moment independent studies of the so-called "free press versus fair trial" issue are being conducted by such prestigious organizations as the American Bar Association, the Brookings Institution, the American Newspaper Publishers Association, the National Conference of State Trial Judges and the American Society of Newspaper Editors. Parallel studies are under way on a joint press-bench-bar basis within at least a dozen states.

Nor is it all talk. Attorney General Nicholas Katzenbach in April ordered U. S. Justice Department personnel to limit pretrial disclosures to the basic facts of a case, withholding, in particular, confessions and other incriminating statements of persons arrested. The Philadelphia Bar Association issued stringent guidelines for pretrial publicity by its members, then pulled the rules back for further study. The New Jersey Supreme Court has advised law enforcement officers and prosecutors in that state to limit release of information to the press in advance of criminal trials.

Much of the new interest in press coverage of crime news stems from the publicity surrounding Lee Harvey Oswald prior to his death, and Jack Ruby whose shooting of Oswald before television cameras stunned the nation. News media representatives, however, insist a presidential assassination is comparable to no other news event, and must be reported fully and promptly, in the interests of national security. Newsmen challenge the use of this case as a basis for study of pretrial coverage problems.

Blown Out of Proportion

The news media while assuring the judges and attorneys of a willingness to discuss the issue, complain that it has been "blown out of proportion." They point out that reporting is more professional and responsible than in any previous period in American history. One group, the Newspaper Public Information Committee, has developed statistics showing that of an estimated 40,000 U. S. jury trials involving major crimes during 1963 and 1964, only three convictions were actually reversed on the grounds that prejudicial publicity deprived the defendant of his right to a fair trial. Newsmen have asked the legal profession to cite any cases in which innocent persons have been imprisoned due to prejudicial news coverage.

Not infrequently press publicity helps the accused, the press argues. An inmate of Southern Michigan Prison, learning of the proposed clampdown on crime news, wrote recently in the prison newspaper that press coverage actually protects accused persons.

"As distasteful as the adverse publicity is, it might be better to be 'spotlighted' momentarily than to be abused in darkness." The writer was alluding to third degree tactics which might be used by police if defendants had no access to the public through the press.

In brief, the agency exists to serve industry in whatever capacities are required at a given time.

Boy Scouts Locate Indian Burial Ground

Boy Scouts of Troop 47, camping at Scout Camp Matagay this past week, came across an Indian burial ground near camp headquarters. Some digging led them to several bones (supposedly human) and an olla (earthen jar).

Early this week four of the Scouts were still at the camp for further investigation. They are Tom Gross, Robert Vryheid, Ben Small III, and Chuck Damon. The troop was taken to the camp by Committeeman Clyde Vryheid.

Troop 47 is sponsored by the Spring Valley Friends Community Church. Scoutmaster Marquette (Mark) Gottwig, who has been convalescing, will be returning to work soon, according to Committeeman Robert Kleber.

500 Surfers Expected For Championships

Among some 500 surfers expected for the Ocean Beach Surfing Championships Saturday and Sunday will be a full team from the defending champion Windansea Surf Club.

Starting time for both days is 7 a.m.

Not only will Windansea's top San Diego area surfers be on hand, but a good turnout from the club's newly formed South Bay Division is expected.

Corky Carroll, the sensational junior who won in the senior division, Donald Takayama, Rusty Miller, Skip Frey, Mickey Munoz, Mike Hynson, and Mike Doyle are the big names from Windansea entered in the open division of the contest.

A division closed to surfers outside San Diego County will also be held, but Windansea will enter only the open.

Takayama finished third at Ocean Beach last year behind two-time champion Joey Cabell and Phil Edwards, but neither Cabell nor Edwards, will compete this year.

Windansea's main competition will come, as usual, from the Long Beach Surf Club and its top surfer, Rich Chew, recent winner of the Hermosa Surf Festival and senior winner of the Western Regional Championships in Pacific Beach.

The O. B. contest will be a U. S. S. A. sanctioned meet.

Windansea Juniors Plan Big Dance Saturday

Windansea Surf Club's Junior Division will present a big dance Saturday at the Conference Building at Balboa Park between 8 p.m. and midnight.

Featured performers will be Sandy and The Accents, popular rock 'n roll recording stars from San Diego.

The dance will be the first in a series of fund-raising projects to help send Windansea surfers to the Makaha International Surfing Championships in Hawaii, Dec. 23-28.

Tickets for the dance may be obtained in advance from the Windansea Sports Shop, Gordon and Smith of Eckstrom Surfboard Companies or any Windansea member.

In Spring Valley the high readings were: Thursday, 94; Friday, 97; Saturday, 92; Sunday, 89, and Monday, 85.

In Lemon Grove: Thursday, 93; Friday, 96; Saturday, 95; Sunday, 90, and Monday, 89.

Following Surgery: Much Needless Fear

CHICAGO (WMNS): Much of the emotional upset that follows surgery for "female complaints" is due to lack of information. This finding comes from a gynecologist and a psychiatrist who studied the reactions of 108 women ranging in age from 20 to 50. The emotional stress, the doctors say, has several causes:

Ignorance of female anatomy. Since almost all the women had only a vague understanding of their physiology, they had many fears about how their organs would function after surgery.

Fear of cancer. Many women mistakenly believed they had cancer—especially if there had been internal bleeding. They were highly "cancer-conscious."

Worry about femininity. Many were so concerned that their femininity had been affected that they asked that their husbands not be told the nature of their operations. They feared the husbands might show less interest in them or stay away from home more frequently.

The investigating showed however, that men who were well informed were more able and likely to give emotional support to their wives.

'Hoosgow' From Latin
The word "hoosgow" sounds like an American invention for jail, but it comes originally from the Latin "iudicare," meaning "to judge."
